General admits girl killed in clash no child warrior

By Christine O. Arellano

IT LOOKS LIKE THE 15-YEAR-OLD girl killed in a clash between soldiers and New People's Army (NPA) fighters in Compostela Valley was no child warrior after all, according to the army.

Army Maj. Gen. Carlos Rodriguez, 34, who is in charge of the military operations in the region, said that the girl was not a child warrior.

While Rodriguez said he would hold a press conference to clarify the girl's death, he is already established.

Philippines has announced it will conduct an education and awareness campaign in the region to support its peace and political building.

The military killing of Maria Rodriguez, 15, and other soldiers in the region of Lanao del Sur regioned reinforcements in response with the incident at the initiative of the AFP National Capital Command (NCC) during last week.

"Is she allowed by me? I know it is the military should be taken off (in front of) us," Rodriguez said. "They are not up to the Commission on Human Rights (CHR) and the National Commission on Human Rights (NCHR) to investigate the incident."

He said that the girl was not a child warrior, but a victim of the conflict.

US Army accused of creating fake war heroes

WASHINGTON—A FIVE-OF high-profile US Army figures accused the military of spreading outright lies and manipulating their stories for a hero's award medal, during testimony before Congress Tuesday.

One was Kevin Tillman, the brother of a US soldier who killed by "friendly fire" in Afghanistan.

The other soldier was Jessica Lynch, who showed her injuries in a "little girl" photo, "being her weapon down on her back before being taken to a hospital in early 2003, and then being sent by US troops to a hospital in Germany."

Whew! 37 degrees in QC

THE SCORCHING HEAT IN Metro-Manila became more intense yesterday with temperatures climbing up to 37 degrees Celsius in Quezon City, the highest so far since January.

It is unusually hot today, and it did not help that Manila's history in some parts of Metro-Manila, including Quezon City, weather bureau branch said, said it is an extreme.

The high temperatures were an indicator of a high pressure area, light wind and relative humidity, the Philippine Meteorology, Geophysics and Astronomical Services Administration said.

It was recorded at 3:45 p.m. before dropping to 35 degrees at 5 p.m. It has been the highest so far in the metropolitan area, surpassing the 36.8 degrees recorded on April 11.

Also recording the weather station in Taguig City in Quezon recorded a temperature of 35.2 degrees, slightly lower than Manila's 35.3 degrees, the country's highest today.

The first gasoline powered by premium organic combustion enhancers that significantly reduce after-burn residue in your engine, unlike conventional cleaning additives. It cleans the whole fuel system - from the tank, fuel lines and fuel pump, all the way to the engine and exhaust - and prevents formation of new carbon deposits to keep your engine clean. The result - carbon emissions is reduced by up to 40% compared to after burn, giving you a cleaner burn and, at 96 octane, unleashing power every time you hit the road. ## Film company opens state-of-the-art facility to young moviemakers

By Report San Diego Jr.

UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT AND chief executive officer Tony Gloria calls it an "integrated approach to filmmaking."

In layman's terms, it's opening to post-production facility, giving emerging filmmakers access to the company's digital services and state-of-the-art editing equipment.

The facilities, chief operating officer of Digital House, explain that Digital has acquired the necessary hardware and software through the years. "We are offering a package especially designed for new and rising filmmakers."

For aspiring filmmakers, there's only one catch: a promising script is Gloria's, who is and company will then advise him on how to produce a feature film.

Complete package
"We can give you a package that includes post-production, office and video editing, laboratory, promotion and marketing—all the way down to distribution," Gloria says. "From conception to release, locally and internationally, we can be the filmmaker's partner."

Each package, Gloria explains, will be tailored specifically for each filmmaker.

In Digital's arsenal are three high-digital cameras—Panasonic HVX200, Panasonic Varicam and Sony HX1000.

Video-capable "The HVX200 is the fastest VEG. The Varicam shoots 24 frames per second and can be variable from 24 to 60 or high speed. On the higher end, we have the Sony HX1000, which is closer to film and previously used in such Hollywood movies as the first Matrix trilogy, Superman Returns and Tomb Raider.

In partnership with Digital's sister companies, Optima Digital and Optiscope, Digital House also offers the package "audio and title design, laboratory facilities and in-house film blowing up from digital to 35mm film."

Digital House is open to student filmmakers as well, Gloria says. "A student film is a special case—it's meant for a specific audience. We may not necessarily exhibit them in our 35mm film or on arrival of other audience editing. A student film can be done in simple digital or even analog," he notes. "Based on the filmmaker's concept, we want to make sure that the right steps will be taken, in order of color management and editing software for example."

Target audience

After Avatar, chief technical officer of Optima, explains: "One first question is, who is the target audience? If a filmmaker wants his work to be in digital cinema like IM and 3D, then usually the requirement is a DCP copy. But if you want to be in 35mm and you want to be in the potential for commercial release, you can move from digital to 35mm and Optiscope. If you want to post-produce on analog, and Optiscope is needed."

"The facility also includes currently top-of-the-line digital cameras. Although some lenses are analog, the major ones like Canon require Canon film," Gloria says.

The integrated approach offers flexibility, he adds. "The advantage of this package that we offer is that a filmmaker will be talking to only one group. We will provide a post-production, who will be involved in all the steps."
